

Opening remarks by Editor-in-Chief

Dear colleagues!

This issue of the journal contains materials of the All-Russian Scientific Conference “Single Digital Space of Scientific Knowledge: Problems and Solutions”, November 10-12, 2020, Moscow, Russia.

The presented publications are devoted to the formation of a single digital space of scientific knowledge as a fundamentally new computer environment that combines heterogeneous resources of various fields of science, both humanitarian and natural.

The conference is organized by the Interdepartmental Supercomputer Center of the Russian Academy of Sciences in collaboration with academic institutes, libraries, museums, archives and publishing houses. The information sponsor of the conference is ICSTI.

The purpose of the conference is to identify, systematize and define approaches to solving organizational, technological, linguistic, and legal problems of creating a single digital space of scientific knowledge.

We reaffirm our permanent interest in the creation of new sustainable international relations, expansion of cooperation in the field of science and innovation, development of international research collaborations both between the organizations in the ICSTI Community and among all interested partners beyond it.

We are interested in continuing geographical expanding of our audience, both readers and authors, and we invite all interested parties for cooperation.

Sincerely yours,

E. Ugrinovich
